Wayne was an excellent bodyboarder whom I met about a decade ago at one of his favorite spots, called "Peaks." Watching him skim over the coral heads on his bodyboard was inspiring. He was gracious, deeply compassionate, always friendly, and we'll miss seeing him, but his spirit lives on, especially at Peaks and Sandbar. Surely, his final hours in the ocean on September 19, 2020, were filled with delight and joy. Rest in peace, friend! Here's a link to a short video dedicated to him:

Thanks 🙏 Richard, Wayne always loved going out at this spot. He would always tell me about his day out there, checking in with the lifeguards, what the tide was doing etc...thanks for posting, Mike
